The Artist David Hockney has recently released some of his beautiful spring images. He paints and uses an ipad. Why don't you have a go at drawing signs of spring like blossom or daffodils from your garden; you could use any materials you have like colouring pencils or paint. If you don't have those could use an ipad or take a photo and edit it. The link above is a very simple tutorial to a video showing how to draw a daffodil but you can be creative as you like. You could even try making a lego daffodil sculpture. Here are some ideas to get you started and don't forget to share them with us.

This one is made entirely from Lego
